Orlandi: new ideas and large-scale projects

Our first textile industry was founded in 1933. Since, it has continued to evolve over time. Orlandi now has 19 companies in Italy and abroad that operate in various fields. It has become a universe of products and ideas where even the smallest detail is as important as the others: this is the secret of our worldwide success.

In 1933, the first Orlandi factory was opened in Gallarate, Milan, for the manufacturing of knitting yarns. In 1960, Orlandi had already started to produce its waddings, which revolutionized the upholstered furniture processes.

In 1986, Orlandi started to operate in various fields, thus expanding itself towards the mechanical-textile and thermotechnical industries. In 1991, Orlandi implemented its spunlace technology, which prompted the manufacturing of hydro-entangled nonwoven products. In 1999, the cloth department for large-scale retailing was established. This sector was destined to become the fulcrum of the manufacturing activities. In 2007, the Personal Care Division of Orlandi was implemented.
